1. As an indication that the Yugoslav people are becoming less friendly in their attitudes toward Great Britain, the [REDACTED] Radio London is almost completely ignored, and that the Yugoslav people refer to it as the "London Radio Tito."

25X1X

2. In the [REDACTED] Yugoslav population looks with sympathy on the United States from which it anticipates liberation and freedom. [REDACTED] adds that Yugoslavia harbors friendly sentiments toward France, even though France cannot give assistance because of its difficult economic situation since World War II. The Yugoslav population, according to [REDACTED] listens to Radio Paris with great satisfaction because of its objectivity and determined anti-Communist line.

25X1X

3. There is no longer any feeling of friendliness toward the Soviet Union. The population cannot forget the vandalism of the Soviets upon their entry into Yugoslavia in 1944. Even the most ardent Panslavists have now ceased to mention the Soviet Union.
